The Apostle Paul encourages us to “make every effort” to build unity among those we love. There are many circumstances that make this difficult, but we can still make every effort to work toward harmony.

This year’s Blended & Blessed will examine the Bible’s prescription for peace within your home—and between homes.

What People Are Saying...

"It blew away our expectations, and this was our first event! Sessions were packed with so many wisdom nuggets that not only can be applied in a blended environment but also life in general."

It has helped our family tremendously and this event started a fire beneath us to do more. After today, we reached out to our pastor about starting a blended ministry!

"It reminds me that I'm not alone and that a lot of what my spouse and I are experiencing and the kids are experiencing is normal in a blended family scenario. Even though we have some serious areas of issue, events like this and the other things FamilyLife Blended offers gives me/us hope for the future and reminds us to be patient when it feels so hard."

"My wife and I have attended the last three events in 2020, 2021, and this one [2022]. I believe the event offers great perspective and honors God as the author of our lives, our marriage, and blended family."
